

New Leader of Band Has Written Songs of Hawaii

Peter Kalani, recently appointed leader of the Hawaiian Band to succeed Capt. Henri Berger, has been interested in music since a small boy. Mr. Kalani was born in Honolulu 33 years ago, and as soon as he became strong enough began twanging the strings of the ukulele and the taro-patch.

He played during his boyhood with various orchestras about the city, being musical instructor of the Elia Brothers Glee Club and later of Kaala's Glee Club, and in 1895 joined the Hawaiian band. With the change of government in 1898, Mr. Kalani left the local organization, and under the leadership of Professor Liborio went, together with several of the other band boys, on a tour of the United States. In the course of the tour more than 300 cities were visited.

After two years Mr. Kalani again returned to Hawaii and joined the band under Captain Berger in the year 1900. Since that time, save for brief vacations and engagements with local orchestras, he has been with the band continually.

He has made a careful study of harmony and counterpoint and is the composer of several Hawaiian songs, three of which have been published and have become well known. These are "Uka Loko," "Sweet Sweeting," and "Maid of Honolulu." He is also the composer of a great many pieces for band and orchestra, among them being "Hula Hula Girl," "Hapa Haole," "Major Lane March," and "1915 Congressional Party March." A great many old Hawaiian songs have been arranged and set in medleys by him.

Kalani deeply appreciates the honor of his new position. He has many kind words for Capt. Berger, under whom he served for so many years and whose place he has just taken. "All the boys," says the new leader, "hate to see Capt. Berger go, but they realize that the work was becoming too hard for one of his years, and they rejoice with him in his well earned rest."

DR. GULICK ACTS AS PEACEMAKER AT CONFERENCE

(Special to the Hawaii Shippo.) SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—Opposition shown here by a so-called Anti-Japanese society to representatives sent from Japan to attend a national labor conference, has been wiped out to some extent through the efforts of Dr. Sidney Gulick, who called on the secretary of the society and explained that the mission of the Japanese representatives was an amicable one.

It is reported that members of the society have declared that Representative Suzuki of the Imperial university is a Japanese spy.

NEWPORT HELPED WAR REFUGEES TO GET FROM FRANCE TO ITALY

Year Ago Made Cruise From Port Near the "Garden of Allah" to Marseilles

The record of a trip from a port near the "Garden of Allah," Algiers, made famous in Robert Hichens' novel, to Marseilles, France, where they picked up many American refugees fleeing before the storm of the European conflict, in the early days of the war last August, is an interesting section of the log book of the New York state training ship Newport, now tied up to the Matson dock.

When the war broke out the Newport was lying off port at Marseilles. The summer cruise had taken the maritime apprentices to various scenes along the Mediterranean, including a "land cruise" beyond the edge of the desert in Algeria. The boys visited also Naples, Rome, Florence, Pisa and other points in Italy.

"You should have seen us climbing those steep where you are supposed to say a prayer at every step," says one of the boys. "We often got prayers mixed with seaman's cussing."

The Newport acted as transport for many American refugees who wished to get from France over to Italy where a neutral steamer could be secured for passage to New York.

"They came flocking down to the docks in droves," say the boys. "The wealthy tourists from their palatial hotels in Paris, and the poor school teachers. They were all alike to us."

After carrying refugees to Italy the Newport set sail for America with 14 refugee guests aboard. In memory of the home voyage each boy and officer of the ship was given a heavy gold medal by Samuel Conant Morris and wife of Providence, Rhode Island. The medal bears the dates August 6 to September 5, and beside an engraving of the ship, records the names of the points of call, Marseilles, Genoa, Funchal and Providence.

Other noted refugees brought home by the Newport were George Holmes, a Providence millionaire; Dr. O. Ring and wife of Philadelphia, Dr. Charles Rogers, who later returned to join the Hospital Corps in France, and Madame DuMont, the opera star.

The fresh food supply gave out before Providence was reached. There was great difficulty in laying in a supply at Marseilles, where the cost of foodstuffs soared to heights never known in America. It was impossible to get vegetables, and meat was selling at 60 cents a pound. The officers of the Newport gave up their cabins to the ladies. Aside from the discomforts caused by being held up constantly by British and French warships, the home voyage was a pleasant one for the refugees.

GEORGE D. FLOOD DENIES COMPANY HAD SACRAMENTO

That portion of an Associated Press despatch published this morning to the effect that Flood Brothers of San Francisco were connected with the purchase of the steamer Sacramento, which vessel is alleged to have violated the neutrality of the United States, was branded as being "decidedly mixed up" today by George D. Flood, one of the Flood brothers, who is a visitor in Honolulu.

Mr. Flood, when communicated with at the Moana hotel, asked that the report that Flood Brothers, better known as the Golden Gate Transportation Company, had had a part in purchasing the Sacramento, be corrected.

He said his company had nothing to do with the ship or with the Northern and Southern Navigation Company. It is alleged the Northern and Southern Navigation Company was apparently organized solely for the purchase of the Sacramento by Flood Brothers. Mr. Flood says the company is owned by a man named Thayer and several other persons.

Mr. Flood is in Honolulu awaiting the arrival of the steamer Mackinaw, due to arrive here Sunday. The vessel has a cargo of wheat consigned to the British government, according to Mr. Flood. He will accompany the steamer to Australia.

LONE HIGHWAYMAN ROBS ONE HUNDRED TOURISTS

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless] LIVINGSTONE, Mont., July 9.—A single highwayman today held up and robbed 100 tourists on a lonely stretch of road in the Yellowstone National Park. The robber escaped with his booty, which is figured to have been worth thousands of dollars.

INVENTOR OF "WARRENITE" TO GIVE TALK ON ROADS

"Roads" will be the chief topic for consideration at the regular Ad Club luncheon next Wednesday at noon when C. O. Warren of Boston will be the guest of the club and the principal speaker. Mr. Warren is the inventor of the famous "Warrenite Road" and has for 35 years made a study of the problems connected with the building of good roads. The Ad Club has concerned itself with the problem of roads in Hawaii, and will welcome this discussion of local problems by one of the leading experts from the mainland.
